SOCIETY

JANE ADDAMS of Hull House, Chicago, once told the story of a young girl who had just graduated from Vassar. Four years of college made her long to pass on to humanity the benefits of her education.

She went to her minister. "Here," she said, in effect, "is a splendid physique and about $10,000 worth of education, together with a most whole-hearted desire to be of some use to the world. How shall I do it?"

The minister urged her to take part in the activities of the church.

"What shall I do?" she persisted.

"Well, why not take the responsibility of keeping the altar supplied with flowers?"

And that was the method suggested to her to pass on to humanity the benefits of a college education. The girl had cost her parents about $25,000. The great majority of girls, she knew, are produced for less than $1000. She had soothed her conscience by saying to herself, that superior advantages mean superior opportunities for service.

And then she was urged to put flowers on an altar. She had been preparing these 20 years—for what? This type of girl appears by the thousands and every June. Every September, when the summer holidays are over, the world wonders anew what on earth to do with her. The world knows well enough what to do with the riff-raff of childhood. It puts them—unwilling and unequipped—to work. But this girl, eager to be of service, and equipped with the best education that modern pedagogy knows how to give—she is of no use.

"No use," exclaims the old-fashioned ultra-practical person. "She can jolly well get married, settle down and have children." Of course she can, and probably she will without being told. But for this no college education was necessary; scarcely a single item of that education was directed toward marriage and motherhood.

"But," says the old-fashioned mildly liberal person, "the college education broadens the future wife and mother." And most of us accept that statement without argument, for America gives the girl the benefit of every doubt. But to be "broad" without having anything in particular to do is to be spread thin over life, to be a dabbler, a trifler. To be stimulated with a desire to do unusual things and then not to do them is to go to seed. From a strict point of view, in fact, the higher education makes marriage and home life more difficult. The college graduate is hardly content to live in her father's house and scatter sunshine. She scans her possible suitors far more critically than her mother ever did her list of contemporary eligibles. She certainly demands a great deal more of married life than did her mother, before she will admit that she is happy and that matrimony may be a success. In fact, she is probably a good deal more of a nuisance because of her college education. As the suffragettes say in their parade banners: "All this comes of teaching girls to read and write."

America realizes this perfectly. But America believes in the higher education of women as does no other country on earth and in believing America is half consciously aiming at something. She knows perfectly well that marriage and motherhood, paramount as they are, are not to be the whole of this girl's life. First, there are the years between college and marriage, often a very considerable period, since the modern girl insists on waiting until she gets what she wants. Next, a woman of this class does not spend the whole 24 hours of her day rocking her babies and making a good man happy. Finally, after the baby period is over this girl is going to have 15 or 20 years of unimpaired vitality when her children do not need—and certainly do not want—her undivided attention. She has been given an abundance of surplus time and energy—time because of the syndication of modern life, and energy because leisure and education have set going within her a dynamo of radiating energy. America has created the problems, yet America can offer no better solution, as a rule, than, "keeping the altar supplied with flowers."

Yet America believes firmly in this girl, "she will contribute something to life that the American woman has never contributed. America has gladly put the answer up to her, and we believe will willingly accept her answer when it comes. Part of it is the widespread demand for the vote. Part of it is the demand for an independent, self-earned income, for a personal latch-key, for freedom from unreasonable supervision. And the demands will go farther, for "civilization is only the multiplication of human demands."

We do not presume to tell the American girl what her life must or must not be. She herself must tell us, and that after much earnest and painful experimentation. She is trying her best this very minute; this American girl is trying to find herself, is entering professions, demanding the vote, becoming interested in politics, working in settlements, striking for war or peace, picketing in strikes, fumbling, blundering, dreaming and working her mightiest to make the world see, and more than that, admit that she is a vital part of it. Great novels have been written about her and greater ones will come. She is the best dramatic material in American life today.

MRS. J. W. WALDRON A LUNCHEON HOSTESS

Mrs. Florence La Mott was the guest of honor at a luncheon given on Tuesday of this week by Mrs. J. W. Waldron at her lovely Nuuanu home. The table was very pretty, a basket of sweet peas forming the centerpiece. The friends invited to meet Mrs. La Mott were Mrs. George Renton, Mrs. Alfred Castle, Miss Blanche Soper, Mrs. Ralph Clark, Mrs. William Campbell, Miss Reba Thompson and Miss Pauline Schaefer.

AN EVENING AT THE OUTRIGGER CLUB

A happy set of pleasure seekers made the always popular Outrigger Club their rendezvous on Thursday evening. A swim was the first pleasure, then a chowder supper topped off a very pleasant outing. Those enjoying the evening were Mr. and Mrs. William Soper, Mrs. Florence La Mott, Mrs. Ben Conrad, Miss Blanche Soper, Miss Ruth Soper, Miss Edna Wilson, Mr. W. Camp, Mr. Latham, Mr. Douglas Young, Mr. Rice and Mr. Budge.

MRS. RENTON HIND A BRIDGE HOSTESS

Mrs. Renton Hind entertained a company of guests with a bridge party on Thursday of this week. The rooms were made very attractive with pink gladioli, pink hibiscus and pink roses. Potted plants and palms lent a cooling touch.

Miss Blanche Soper won the first prize, Mrs. Denbigh the second prize and Mrs. J. A. Gallagher was given the cut prize.

Mrs. Hinds' guests were Mrs. Trent, Mrs. Donald Ross, Mrs. Denbigh, Mrs. Jack Hayes, Mrs. James Gallagher, Mrs. Harry Wilder, Mrs. Charles Judd, Mrs. L. C. Howland, Mrs. A. M. Nowell, Mrs. Claude Watson, Mrs. Danford, Miss Josephine Soper, Miss Blanche Soper, Mrs. Edward Dekum, Miss Louise Lucas, Mrs. Ormond Wall, Mrs. Harry Gray, Miss Maude Jordan, Mrs. Queenie Jordan, Mrs. C. P. Schumutzler, Mrs. Matthew Graham, Mrs. William P. Kendall, Miss Katherine Woodford, Mrs. Herbert Mist and Mrs. Reynold B. McGrew.

COL. AND MRS. WILLIAM P. KENDALL'S BRIDGE

This evening Col. and Mrs. William P. Kendall are entertaining a company of friends with an evening of bridge. Col. and Mrs. Kendall's guests are to be Col. and Mrs. James McRae, Capt. and Mrs. Jack Hayes, Capt. and Mrs. James Gallorly, Col. and Mrs. Charles Lincoln, Col. and Mrs. Hunter, Lieut. and Mrs. Robert Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Renton Hind, Col. and Mrs. Frank R. Keefer, Capt. and Mrs. Daniel H. Gienty, Miss Hunter and Mr. Douglas Young.

MADAME MELBA RETURNING

Madame Melba will soon be a visitor in Honolulu for two months, for the plans to spend December and January in Honolulu, bringing "Peggy" Center home for a visit. No doubt music-loving Honolulu will again have the pleasure of hearing this wonderful singer. She has made for herself a very warm place in Honolulu hearts, and will be welcomed here with a hearty aloha.

THE PLEASANTON HOTEL DANCE

A large company of guests responded to the invitation sent by the Pleasanton Hotel management for the dance there on Thursday evening. Many small dinner parties preceded the dance. A splendid quintet furnished dance music.

MRS. H. GOODING FIELD'S BRIDGE PARTY

Three tables of bridge was Mrs. Field's method of entertaining on Tuesday afternoon. After the scores were counted Mrs. Byron E. Noble won the first prize, a canteen bowl on a teak-wood stand; Mrs. J. E. Sheedy, the second prize, a set of dollies, and the cut prize went to Mrs. Tom Church. Mrs. Field's guests were Mrs. J. L. and Dr. Clifford B. High.

Young, Mrs. J. W. Caldwell, Mrs. Byron E. Noble, Mrs. Fred Waldron, Mrs. C. R. Pentland, Mrs. Capps, Mrs. Louis T. Warren, Mrs. Horace W. Vaughan, Mrs. J. E. Sheedy, Mrs. James L. Coke and Mrs. Wallace R. Farrington.

THE COUNTRY CLUB DANCE

The moonlight dance given at the Country Club on Wednesday evening was perhaps the most successful of the series at this clubhouse. Many large and small dinner parties were given before the dance and about a hundred guests arrived later to join the dancing set. "Dude" Miller's quintet furnished music, and it was after two before the last guest left the place. These dances during the full of the moon are always looked forward to with a great deal of pleasure.

MRS. JAMES A. JAEGER A LUNCHEON HOSTESS

Mrs. Lucy McWayne was the guest of honor at a luncheon given on Thursday at the Country Club by her sister, Mrs. James A. Jaeger. A low bronze basket held yellow chrysanthemums as the table decoration. Mrs. McWayne leaves next Wednesday for San Francisco.

Mrs. Jaeger's guests were Mrs. Lucy McWayne, the guest of honor; Miss Beeson of Minneapolis, Miss Gertrude Rossiter, Miss C. McWayne, Mrs. Laurence Robinson, Mrs. Mark Robinson, Mrs. Robert McWayne and Miss Siegel.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK E. THOMPSON'S DINNER

Pink hibiscus and pink tulips most artistically arranged were used on the table on Monday evening of this week, when Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Thompson entertained at dinner. The diversion after dinner was a trip to Heinie's and an hour or so of dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton P. Agee, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Samuel I. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Foster of New York City, and Dr. Clifford B. High.

THE INGALLS CONCERT

This evening Mrs. A. B. Ingalls will give a violin recital for the benefit of the war orphans of Belgium. The tickets have been on sale for a week and a good house is assured this very worthy cause. This evening at the Opera House the remaining tickets will be disposed of.

The only vocal numbers on the program will be a group of songs composed by Miss Edith Simonds, the talented music writer who was recently a visitor in Honolulu as the house-guest of Mrs. Francis Gay and who made a very marked impression on all who heard her play.

Miss Clemence Gifford will sing these songs. Miss Gifford, while a very young girl, is possessed of an unusually powerful voice, the quality being very pure and sweet. With training no doubt Miss Gifford will be one of the very best of Honolulu's vocalists.

Mrs. Ingalls needs no introduction to the musical circles of this city, for her mastery of the violin is unquestioned. Mr. Frank Moss, pianist, is likewise well-known.

The following is the program and the list of young society girls who are to usher the guests to their seats: Miss R. McChesney, Miss T. K. Murphy, Miss M. McChesney, Miss Pauline Schaefer, Miss Mary Von Holt, Miss Hilda Von Holt, Miss Bernice Halstead, Miss Sara Lucas, Miss Marie Ballentyne and Miss Ruth Anderson.

DAUGHTERS OF HAWAII SALE

All this morning the Daughters of Hawaii have been more busily engaged than the proverbial bee in selling the foods offered at the Royal Hawaiian hotel. By noon the tables were cleaned and a goodly sum of money turned in to the treasurer. The following ladies have been responsible for the many good things sold:

Mrs. C. S. Holloway, lau lau; Mrs. B. L. Marx, ham; Mrs. W. H. Babbitt, ducks; Mrs. Eben P. Low, chickens; Miss Margaret Walker, salads, herring salad being a specialty; Mrs. Charles F. Chillingworth, candy; Mrs. A. Lewis, Jr., cakes; Mrs. G. P. Potter, pies; Mrs. Alexander D. Lamach, preserves; Mrs. Arthur Alexander, bread and rolls; Miss M. Ahrens, flowers.

The proceeds are to carry on the organization's activities.

A SWIM AT WAIANAE

A jolly set of young people were the guests of Mr. Douglas Damon on Thursday for a supper and moonlight swim at Waianae beach. Early in the afternoon the party motored down, enjoyed a grilled steak and the other "fixings" of a bacon or steak bat, after which a swim was in order then a ride home in the moonlight.

Those enjoying Mr. Damon's party were Miss Harriet Lucas, Miss Mary Lucas, Miss Mona Hind, Miss Margaret Hind, Mr. Bob Menary, Mr. Bob Purvis, Mr. George Ahlborn and Mr. Charles Lucas, Jr.

AN ORCHID DINNER

On Tuesday evening of last week Miss Jessie Kennedy was the honored guest at a dinner given by Mr. Douglas Damon in the Chinese room at Moanalua gardens. The table's centerpiece was a massed arrangement of handsome white and lavender orchids, while the favors for each guest were lovely sprays of the same delicate bloom. A quintet furnished music and the guests dined between the courses.

Mr. Damon's guests were Miss Jessie Kennedy, the guest of honor; Miss Vera Damon, Miss Harriet Lucas, Miss Mary Lucas, Miss Mona Hind, Miss Margaret Hind, Mr. Charles Herbert, Mr. Bob Menary, Mr. Bob Purvis, Mr. Leighton Hind and Mr. Cyril Damon.

MR. CHARLES LUCAS A POLO HOST

A few weeks ago Sunday evening Mr. Charles Lucas, Jr., was host at a poi supper at the Lucas' Niu home. Many Hawaiian delicacies, deliciously prepared, were served. Yellow was the decorative color used. Illima leis and maiile were at each guest place, while the table center was massed with yellow chrysanthemums and lilies. Those enjoying Mr. Lucas' hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shingle, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gould, Mr. Arthur Rice, Mr. James Spalding, Mr. Bob Menary, Miss Mona Hind, Miss Margaret Hind, Miss Jessie Kennedy, Miss Mary Lucas, Miss Harriet Lucas and Miss Laura Low.

MRS. NED LOOMIS GIVES A SHOWER

A stocking and handkerchief shower was Mrs. Ned Loomis' way of entertaining for Mrs. Norma Adams on Thursday afternoon. The rooms were very prettily decorated with pink begonias and pink roses. Hanging baskets of lacy ferns on the lanais were very cool. After the surprise of the shower was over refreshments were served.

Mrs. Loomis' guests were Mrs. Cyril Hoogs, Mrs. Stanley McKenzie, Mrs. Daniel McCriston, Mrs. Fanny Hudson, Mrs. Howard Bode, Mrs. James Morgan, Jr., Mrs. Percy Nottage, Miss Alice Hoogs, Miss Lucille Hoogs, Miss Ramona Morgan, Miss Ruth McChesney, Miss Martha McChesney, Miss Dorothy Guild and Miss Merle Hanni.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES HAYNES' DINNER DANCE

Mrs. Cecil Garney of New York City was the guest of honor at a dinner given on Wednesday evening at the Country Club by Mr. and Mrs. James J. C. Haynes. A lovely centerpiece of sweet peas in lavender and pink shades was used and pink tulip and pink shaded candles heightened a pretty effect. The evening after dinner was spent in dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes' guests were Mrs. Cecil Garney, the guest of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chillingworth, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Rogers, Capt. and Mrs. Brady Ruttencutter and Mr. E. Desnoeue.

MRS. A. S. CONNINGHAM GIVES A TEA

Mrs. A. S. Conningham gave the first of a series of teas on Tuesday of this week, honoring her sister, Miss Vera Beyuss, who is on her first visit to Honolulu. The rooms were attractive with lovely hanging baskets and potted plants. All about the rooms were vases and baskets of Transvaal daisies. About a dozen guests enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon.

MRS. W. G. SCOTT'S DINNER

The Country Club on Wednesday evening was the setting for a small dinner given by Mrs. W. G. Scott. Covers were placed for six guests. The dance that was on at the club furnished diversion for the hours after dinner.

MR. C. D. WRIGHT'S DINNER PARTY

Among those entertaining at the Country Club on Wednesday evening was Mr. Charles Dana Wright, whose honor guests were Miss Georgina Purcell and Mrs. and Mrs. J. Wyatt.

A COUNTRY CLUB DINNER

One among the many small parties noticed at the Country Club on Wednesday evening was a table at which sat Miss Margaret McKinley, Miss Helen Scott, Mr. Robert McCriston and Mr. Robert Scott.

MAJ. HERBERT WILLIAMS' DINNER

Maj. Herbert O. Williams honored Miss Magruder on Wednesday evening as the guest of honor at a dinner given at the Country Club. The long table was very pretty, massed with Japanese chrysanthemums and lace fern. Yellow shaded candles lent a soft glow and artistically arranged tulips were very charming. Maj. Williams' guests were Miss Magruder, the guest of honor; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. King, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Robert K. Evans, Capt. and Mrs. L. B. Magruder, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilder, Madame Magruder, Maj. William Weigel, Maj. William S. Guignard, Mr. Guy Buttolph and Lieut. Samuel Tilghman.

MRS. REYNOLD BRODIE MCGREW A DINNER HOST

The Country Club was the setting for one of the prettiest dinners given there on Wednesday evening when Mrs. Reynold McGrew entertained, honoring Miss Culver and Miss Jones, who are guests at the Moana. The table bore a low bowl filled with gorgeous yellow California poppies and yellow tulip, long sprays of lace fern and asparagus vine. The dance at the Country Club was the diversion for the evening.

Mrs. McGrew's guests were Miss Katherine Culver and Miss Jones, the honor guests; Miss Dorothy Guild, Miss Merle Hanna, Mrs. Howard Bode, Mr. Arthur Restarick, Mr. Cyril Damon, Mr. Cornell Franklin, Mr. Merwin Carson, Mr. Ernest Podmore and Mr. Watson Ballentyne.

DR. AND MRS. ARTHUR G. HODGINS' DINNER

Around a table which was very pretty with its crystal decoration of pink plumarias, lace fern and pink tulip, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hodgins entertained on Tuesday evening. Attendance at the "Bronze Revue" the entertainment planned for the guests after dinner. Dr. and Mrs. Hodgins' guests were Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Dekum and Dr. Alsop.

AN OUTING TO SACRED VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Agee and a party of guests motored over to Waialeale on Saturday of last week and remained the night at this attractive hostelry. Sunday morning the party motored to Sacred Valley, where the climb was begun. It is a rather hard climb, yet well worth the effort, for one of the most beautiful of the many beautiful of Oahu's views may be found here. Luncheon was served after which the guests motored back to town, delighted with the outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Agee's guests were Mrs. Florence Butler, Mrs. Grace Beall, Mrs. Gideon Van Poole, Mr. Ernest Waterhouse, Mr. Clarence G. Son, Capt. J. Uilo, Mr. Herman Turner and Mr. Pettijohn.

MRS. JAMES COCKBURN GIVES A TEA

Mrs. James Cockburn was an afternoon tea hostess on Friday of the week. About 30 guests were bidden.

MR. AND MRS. J. L. COCKBURN DINNER

Among the many small dinners given at the Country Club on Wednesday was a very pretty one given by Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Cockburn. A basket of sweet peas made a very attractive centerpiece. Mr. and Mrs. Cockburn's guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bottomley and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Watson.

MRS. EDWARD DEKUM A LUNCHEON HOSTESS

Mrs. William Williamson and Mr. Connell of Portland, Ore., were the guests of honor at a luncheon given by Mrs. Edward Dekum on Friday of this week at her attractive Nuuanu home. The table was very pretty. A tall handled silver basket, filled with yellow and cream colored snapdragons, yellow tulip added an artistic touch. The hour after luncheon was devoted to bridge and snappy rubber was enjoyed.

Mrs. Dekum's guests were Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Connell, the guests of honor; Miss Maupin, Miss Louise Lucas, Mrs. Charles Chillingworth, Mrs. James D. Dougherty, Mrs. Arthur G. Hodgins, Mrs. Samuel A. Walker and Mrs. Roderick O. Matheson.

MRS. J. H. NORTON GIVES A DINNER

The Moana Hotel was the setting for a dinner given on Tuesday evening by Mrs. J. H. Norton of New York who is enjoying her first visit to Honolulu. The table was very dainty with a pretty basket generously filled with sweet peas in pink and lavender.

Mrs. Norton's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Mather, Judge and Mrs. William B. Lymer, Miss Edith Williams, Lieut. Frank Sloan and Mr. Gardener of Eastman, N. Y.

JUDGE AND MRS. WILLIAM B. LYMER ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Mather were the honor guests at a home dinner given on Wednesday evening by Judge and Mrs. William B. Lymer. The table was very pretty with its central adornment of La France roses and lace fern, with pink tulip attractively arranged. After dinner the company motored to the Country Club, where the hours were pleasantly passed.

Judge and Mrs. Lymer's guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wylie Mather, Mrs. H. Norton of New York, Miss Edith Williams, Lieut. Frank Sloan and Mr. Gardener of New York.

MISS SARA LUCAS GIVES A SWIM AND TEA

Friday afternoon Miss Sara Lucas was hostess at a swimming tea, honoring Miss Florence Hoffman, who leaves for the coast next Wednesday. Pink roses and pink sweet peas were used to decorate the rooms.

Miss Lucas' guests were Miss Florence Hoffman, the guest of honor; Miss Marie Ballentyne, Miss Ruth Anderson, Miss Martha McChesney, Mrs. Ned Loomis, Mrs. L. E. H. H. Guy Minor, Mr. Ernest Podmore and Mrs. A. Hocking.
